
Kristiansand Symphony Orchestra

Chief Conductor and Artistic Director: Rolf Gupta.

Kristiansand Symphony Orchestra is a flexible ensemble currently comprising 52 musicians. In addition to performing symphonic repertoire, the orchestra gives chamber orchestra and wind ensemble concerts.

In 2012, KSO will move into a brand-new, purpose-built performing arts centre called "Kilden", housing Kristiansand Symphony Orchestra, Agder Theatre and Opera Sør. The new centre will have four separate performance spaces, including a 1200-seat concert hall with acoustics designed specifically for symphonic music.

KSO is a growing musical and cultural force for the whole southern region of Norway. The orchestra is scheduled to expand to 70 musicians by the time it moves into Kilden. The orchestra will thus be able to offer a broad musical programme for the region in addition to facilitating exciting collaborations with the other cultural institutions.
