About the RSO

Currently celebrating our 74th season, the Roanoke Symphony Orchestra (RSO) and Chorus is the largest professional orchestra in Southwest Virginia with a stable annual budget of $1.7 million with a growing endowment.

Under the direction of Maestro David Stewart Wiley, RSO's season consists of five Masterworks concerts, four Pops concerts, and other special services like summer parks concerts, destination series programs and opera services.

The RSO currently employs professional orchestra musicians from Virginia and neighboring states including West Virginia, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Florida. Most are pleasantly surprised by the proximity of the beautiful Roanoke Valley to areas outside of Virginia. Our musicians find the RSO's schedule and compensation to be an enjoyable way to supplement their yearly income while working in a musically rewarding atmosphere.
