

INTERNATIONAL CONDUCTORS GUILD

50TH ANNIVERSARY

DALLAS CONFERENCE

January 16-19, 2026

REGISTER NOW

Join your colleagues and friends in the fantastic city of Dallas, Texas, this coming January 16-19, 2026! We'll hear Maestro Fabio Luisi, an ICG member, and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra on Friday evening, January 16, performing Bruckner's Symphony No. 9, and we have Fabio for an enlightening Conductor Workshop early on Saturday morning, on the beautiful campus of Southern Methodist University. Reserve your DSO Concert Ticket via the registration form.

Speakers for this year are set to share their research and insights into America and its music!

View the Dallas Conference schedule HERE!

We'll hear about rarely performed American orchestral works, women conductors and composers, Wind Ensemble repertoire, and a variety of other interesting topics, including one presenter who will share information about J.C. Penney's Bicentennial Celebration and the music they commissioned for ensembles across the USA!

Tell your friends and colleagues to join us!

We'll stay at the beautiful Beeman Hotel near Southern Methodist University's campus and be sure to take advantage of their discount offer before Friday, November 14, 2025, when you register!

DALLAS CONFERENCE REGISTRATION RATES -

WHY SHOULD I COME TO THE ICG DALLAS CONFERENCE?

"After attending my first ICG Conference in London, I left energized, challenged, and inspired. Nowhere else offers this level of artistry, dialogue, and shared passion for conducting. Dallas will be an experience you won't want to miss."

"The International Conductors Guild Conference is a rare and treasured opportunity for conductors to gather, share information, compare notes, gain inspiration, and enjoy camaraderie with peers. ICG has been a great help for programming, professional development, networking, and opportunities to share my work. Go! "

"It was thrilling to watch Mark Wiggleworth work with young conductors in London, and I can hardly wait to see what Fabio Luisi will do in Dallas, when he gives a master class on Til Eulenspiegel with a full orchestra at his disposal."
